

To whom it may concern,

I would like to thank you for your dedication to public safety. With the vast growing concern of wildfires and the increasing intensity, unprecedented characteristics and unpredictable behavior, I am calling on those we greatly respect, appreciate and depend on to investigate fully and kindly ask that you to take some time to review the credible information from the global lead researcher on climate engineering operations, Dane Wigington. Dane's website, GeoengineeringWatch.org, is the world's largest repository site on exposing the global climate engineering coverup with irrefutable evidence and testimonies. All data available at Geoengineering Watch is verifiable.

In 2021, Geoengineering Watch released the ground breaking documentary, The Dimming, that conclusively exposes the existence of climate engineering operations. The film features high altitude atmospheric testing, conducted with the same aircraft also used by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), revealing climate engineering contamination. It also includes climate engineering confirming testimonies from a US Air Force Major General (Ret), US Air Force Brigadier General (Ret.), Presidential Cabinet Member (Ret.), US Forest Service Scientist (Ret.), Decorated CIA officer (Ret.), Canadian Minister Of Defense (Ret.), Premier Of British Columbia (Ret.), California Department of Fish And Game Scientist (Ret.), US Air Force Environmental Testing Specialist (Ret.) and Major Tech University Scientists.

Covert climate engineering operations have been used to mask the climate collapse from public view for as long as possible, paradoxically fueling overall planetary meltdown, not mitigating it. The price the planet has had to pay for this unimaginably destructive form of climate mitigation cannot be quantified. The impact to the forests is far beyond catastrophic, contributing to massive global tree die-off and leaving forests tinder dry, exacerbating unprecedented global wildfires. Below are some of the converging climate engineering factors that are further fueling the wildfire cataclysms:

- Completely disrupting the global hydrological cycle causing record droughts and cutting off precipitation where it is desperately needed.
- Greatly contributing to the fire intensity and volatility due to the fallout of climate engineering elements which are incendiaries. This incendiary dust settles down through the atmosphere coating forests and blowing in the winds around and above the fires.
- Killing trees from the roots up with the highly toxic elements like aluminum and barium, which peer reviewed study proves cause trees and crops to reduce or stop nutrient uptake. The elements also act as desiccants that further dry out forests and foliage resulting in record low fuel moisture contents.
- Killing the trees from the top down by destroying the ozone layer which is allowing lethal levels of UV radiation to reach the surface of the planet, including UVC radiation, scorching trees and virtually frying off the bark.
- Creating exponentially more dry lightning strikes due to the atmospheric saturation of the electrically conductive climate engineering elements.
- Disrupting upper level wind currents. Extreme and unpredictable wind conditions can be directly connected to convection manipulation via jet aircraft dispersions of atmospheric aerosols.
- Creating and maintaining high pressure domes like the ridiculously resilient ridge over the western north American continent, the result of ionospheric heater installations. These massively powerful radio frequency transmission facilities are a core part of the geoengineering operations.

The incredibly shortsighted and destructive agendas of the climate engineers are directly connected to what is unfolding in the polar regions. The catastrophic wildfires are not just an unintended consequence of climate engineering, they are now, in fact, part of the geoengineering desperation; When enough extreme wildfires are burning and expanding the fires then, in and of themselves, become a form of climate engineering. As abrupt climate collapse accelerates exponentially, climate engineering operations have been used to set the stage for wildfires of unprecedented size and intensity. In a desperate attempt to temporarily cool portions of the planet, the selective and systematic incineration of forests is being facilitated and utilized to fill the skies with sun blocking smoke particulates, creating a scenario that is comparable to a volcanic winter effect. Numerous science reports confirm the conclusions that the climate engineers need to generate the hottest possible fires in order to push the smoke particulates as high as possible into the atmosphere which allow the particulates to migrate maximum distances and thus have the maximum duration cooling effect. Peer reviewed science study confirms the temporary cooling effect of wildfire smoke in the arctic, this is exactly the goal of Solar Radiation Management operations, a form of climate engineering. Wildfire smoke can and has temporarily cooled the arctic at the cost of making the overall long term warming worse.

Though there are countless forms of anthropogenic damage to the planet and biosphere, the intentional climate intervention operations are mathematically the single greatest factor derailing the planet's climate and life support systems, at an ever escalating rate. How far are global power structures willing to go in their attempt to mask the unfolding climate collapse from the masses? Are the climate engineers desperate enough to fuel the fires of Earth's remaining forests in order to temporarily cool parts of the planet with continent covering expanses of smoke, regardless of the overall long term cost to the planet as a whole? I hope you will examine the dire data presented at Geoengineering Watch and decide for yourself. This information was sent to you because I believe that you are in a unique position to grasp this reality and make a great impact in the arduous and growing battle to expose and halt these omnicidal programs. All I ask is that you review the verifiable material enclosed. Objective investigation is not just an option it is an absolute obligation, it is our responsibility. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
